Portraiture in Inks with De Gillett.

This series of photographs shows the development of De's self portrait in Inks titled "Discovering the Fauve within"

In this 3 day workshop, all the techniques used in the production of this work will be taught. We will firstly learn simple methods for the accurate construction of the head. We will then choose our colours, build an interesting background with spattering.

We will be building the planes of the head with palette knife techniques, and finally glazing the painting with inks in order to unify the painting and develop the colours to a breathtakingly original conclusion.

This process is the latest development with Inking, with which De has been working for the last 10 years. If you have done an Inks workshop with De before, you are well placed to develop it further in this workshop. If you are a newcomer to working with inks, however, you are not at any disadvantage, as all the steps are simple, if a little surprising! These painting techniques can also be easily adapted to working with other methods using acrylic or oil paints.
